DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

A broad range or limitation together with a narrow range or limitation that falls within the broad range or limitation (in the same claim) is considered indefinite, since the resulting claim does not clearly set forth the metes and bounds of the patent protection desired. Note the explanation given by the Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences in Ex parte Wu, 10 USPQ2d 2031, 2033 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1989), as to where broad language is followed by "such as" and then narrow language. The Board stated that this can render a claim indefinite by raising a question or doubt as to whether the feature introduced by such language is (a) merely exemplary of the remainder of the claim, and therefore not required, or (b) a required feature of the claims. Note also, for example, the decisions of Ex parte Steigewald, 131 USPQ 74 (Bd. App. 1961); Ex parte Hall, 83 USPQ 38 (Bd. App. 1948); and Ex parte Hasche, 86 USPQ 481 (Bd. App. 1949). In the present instance, claim 1 recites the broad recitation "transmitting different information signal bits", and the claim also recites "transmitting the "0" and "1" in the binary shift keying" which is the narrower statement of the range/limitation.

Dependent claims 2, 3 are rejected as the same reason.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Kuchi (US 6,542,556).

As to claim 1, Kuchi teaches a method of space shift keying modulation using a digital wireless communication system (figure 1,2 and 3 and col.2, line 47-col.3, line 37) with a transmitter, receiver and an antenna array comprising the steps of transmitting different information signal bits from different antenna elements to the receiver; and detecting the information signal bits transmitted from different elements and numbers of transmitter antennas by the Likelihood Ratio Test.

As to claim 2, Kuchi teaches the method of mace shift keying of claim 1, further comprising the step of (c) employing a plurality of antenna (414-420) to carry the transmitted information signals.

As to claim 3, Kuchi teaches the method of space shift keying of claim 1, wherein the method is employed in the transmission using the modulation of multiple bit or

M-ary information signals (col.5, line 51-65).

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

A. Hammons, Jr. et al (US 6,678,263) teaches the method and construction for space-time coding for PSK contellation for spatial diversity in multiple element antenna system.

B. El-Gamal et al (US 2002/0136327) teaches the method and system for utilizing space-time codes for block fading channels.
